Individual Development Plan - Section 1

Introduction

For Employee

WHA's Annual Development Cycle is designed to foster a culture of continuous improvement and development across the organization as well as cultivate strengths and growth within individuals. This is accomplished through meaningful conversations between employees and managers during the year where performance growth and competencies are discussed, and relationship-building and well-being are prioritized.

The Annual Development Cycle consists of three phases with staff and clinicians and their supervisors or managers, beginning with goal setting, followed by focused check-ins and a final reflection discussion.

By filling out this form, you are completing the first phase of the cycle—the Individual Development Plan (IDP)—which identifies goal setting, competency development, and resiliency planning for the year ahead. This is your personal roadmap for building skills, shaping behaviors, and identifying the support you need to succeed.

Goal Setting 1a

For Employee

Goal setting supports your growth and development in achieving successful work performance that supports organizational priorities. Your goals represent the specific outcomes that you aim to own and accomplish in 2025, against which you can assess your performance.

In this section, you will set 2 goals that are actionable and can be measured. Your goals should be important to you, challenge you to develop something new or revisit something you want to improve, and align your work with WHA's strategic directions and values.

Actionable: How will you accomplish the goal, what tools/skills will be needed, and what steps will you need to take to ensure success?

Measurable: What metrics and timeframe will you use to determine when you met the goal, and what will success look like when you achieve the goal?

WHA Strategic Directions for 2025-2027

Strategic Direction 1: Align Decisions and Performance with Culture and Sustainability Goals Create a foundation to assure decisions and performance-measures reflect our belief that an extraordinary culture and financial sustainability are inseparable—and essential—to delivering exceptional care.

Strategic Direction 2: Invest in Our People and Our Culture Foster a workplace where clinicians, staff and leaders feel valued and supported—making WHA a destination for purpose-driven, diverse individuals who thrive in a collaborative and inclusive environment.

Strategic Direction 3: Drive Financial Performance to Support Our People and Our Patients Secure WHA's long-term future by increasing revenue and managing costs—so we can continue investing in our workforce and meeting the evolving needs of the communities we serve.

WHA Values—our core principles or ethics that guide how we act

Service – Diversity – Integrity – Excellence – Teamwork –Belonging – Wellbeing

Example Goals

• To reduce errors and improve patient care and team communication, I want to improve my efficiency and accuracy in patient documentation and scheduling. This will be accomplished by increasing my proficiency in EPIC, specifically by completing two EPIC training modules and passing any associated assessments with a score of 90% or higher. I will dedicate 1 hour per week to EPIC training or shadowing co-workers for 6 weeks beginning September 1.
• To enhance project efficiency and ensure alignment on objectives, I will improve cross-functional collaboration by initiating regular communication and leading bi-weekly meetings with the Billing and Coding and Scheduling teams. I will document shared action items and progress beginning October 15 and will dedicate 20 minutes per week to coordinating with these team using MS Teams.

EMPLOYEE RESPONSE REQUIRED BELOW

Write one goal for this year (7/17/25 - 12/31/25) that is actionable and measurable.

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

To begin renewing my CompTIA Security+ certification (which satisfies CEU requirements for A+ and Network+), I will earn 10 CEUs in 2025 by attending an IT security-related conference before December 31, 2025. I will identify and register for a qualifying CEU-eligible event by August 31, 2025. I will submit proof of attendance to my CompTIA portal by year-end, and include this as part of a longer-term CEU plan to maintain my certification through July 2027.

Goal Setting 1b

For Employee

Which WHA strategic direction(s) and / or value(s), listed above, does this goal support?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

WHA Strategic Directions:

Invest in Our People and Our Culture — I am investing in my professional growth by pursuing CEU-eligible continuing education, which enhances both my expertise and my long-term value to WHA.

Drive Financial Performance to Support Our People and Our Patients — By staying current with security certifications, I contribute to safeguarding WHA's IT infrastructure, which helps reduce risk exposure and protect organizational resources.

WHA Values:

Excellence — I am committed to maintaining high technical standards by proactively renewing my industry-recognized certifications through ongoing learning opportunities.

Integrity — I demonstrate accountability in my role by ensuring my security knowledge remains current and aligned with recognized best practices.

Wellbeing — By choosing to fulfill CEU requirements through a conference, I am supporting a balanced and engaging approach to professional development that avoids the stress of traditional recertification exams.

Service — Keeping my certifications active directly supports my ability to provide secure, reliable IT systems for clinicians and staff across WHA.

Goal Setting 1c

For Employee

How will you know you have achieved this goal?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

I will have achieved this goal when I have:

Registered for and attended a CEU-eligible IT security conference before December 31, 2025.

Earned and documented 10 CEUs from the event through an official certificate of attendance or post-event documentation.

Submitted those 10 CEUs to the CompTIA portal, with confirmation of credit applied toward my Security+ renewal.

Goal Setting 1d

For Employee

What support do you need to accomplish this goal?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025 Edited

I welcome recommendations from my supervisor or team for CEU-eligible IT security conferences that both satisfy CompTIA renewal requirements and directly align with WHA's business needs or strategic direction.

Initial Recommendation: Portland Cybersecurity Summit - Aug 26, $250 standard admission
https://cybersecuritysummit.com/summit/portland25/

I would also appreciate support in determining whether WHA offers reimbursement or financial assistance for continuing education activities. Specifically, I'd like help confirming eligibility, understanding the approval process, and identifying any required documentation to apply for support.

Goal Setting 2a

For Employee

Write a second goal for this year (7/17/25 - 12/31/25) that is actionable and measurable.

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 09/12/2025 Edited

To strengthen my expertise in Microsoft cloud and security technologies relevant to WHA's IT environment, I will completeI will complete the first two learning paths of the MD-102 Certification (Explore Endpoint Management and Execute Device Enrollment) by the end of this review period.

Goal Setting 2b

For Employee

Which WHA strategic direction(s) and / or value(s), listed above, does this goal support?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

WHA Strategic Directions:

Invest in Our People and Our Culture — I am actively investing in my own technical development by pursuing a certification path that strengthens my ability to contribute effectively within WHA's infrastructure and support ecosystem.

Drive Financial Performance to Support Our People and Our Patients — By enhancing my expertise in Microsoft cloud and security technologies, I will be better equipped to manage and secure systems in a way that supports long-term cost savings, efficiency, and protection of WHA's operational assets.

WHA Values:

Excellence — I am committed to maintaining a high standard of technical capability and up-to-date knowledge that supports continuous improvement in my work and WHA's systems.

Integrity — Pursuing certification validates my dedication to practicing reliable, standards-based administration and upholding best practices in system security and performance.

Teamwork — Gaining deeper technical knowledge strengthens my ability to collaborate effectively across teams and provide informed support to colleagues and stakeholders.

Goal Setting 2c

For Employee

How will you know you have achieved this goal?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 09/22/2025 Edited

I will have achieved this goal when I have:

Completed two learning modules and/or labs associated with the MD-102 certification by December 15, 2025.

I will show my manager the module completion in my Microsoft Learn account as proof of completion

---

Goal Setting 2d

For Employee

What support do you need to accomplish this goal?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 09/22/2025 Edited

The only support I may need will be identifying opportunities to block off focused time in my schedule for studying and completing certification-related coursework—ensuring this professional development effort can be prioritized alongside ongoing responsibilities.

Individual Development Plan - Section 2

Competency Development 1

For Employee

Competencies represent an individual's ability to successfully perform their work using behaviors that are valued and upheld by their employer. In this section, identify key competency development that you are committed to this year.

WHA Universal Competencies

• Embracing Teamwork
• Embodying Service and Respect to Others
• Valuing Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Belonging

EMPLOYEE RESPONSE REQUIRED BELOW

Which competency, listed above, will be most important for your growth and development this year?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025 Edited

I'd like to focus on Embodying Service and Respect to Others.

Competency Development 2

For Employee

Why did you choose that competency?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

I recognize that technical work doesn't happen in a vacuum—it's ultimately in service to people. While I take pride in resolving complex issues, I want to improve how I approach interactions during moments of frustration, confusion, or urgency. My goal is to ensure that even under pressure, colleagues and users consistently feel heard, supported, and respected in every interaction.

Individual Development Plan - Section 3

Motivators of Success 1

For Employee

Motivation is the underlying reason behind an individual's actions and can often be the most significant predictor of their success. In this section, identify key motivators that help drive your growth and performance.

Different people value different characteristics of their work. Below are some of the ways individual roles can feel rewarding and contribute to personal and professional fulfillment.

EMPLOYEE RESPONSE REQUIRED BELOW

Which two characteristics in your current role motivate you to do your best work?

- Teamwork—working together to achieve goals
- Autonomy—being independent in making decisions
- Challenge—opportunity to develop new skills
- Recognition—gaining respect and acknowledgement from others
- Purpose—connecting with the organization's mission
- Pay—earning a sustainable wage to support one's life and/or family
- Achievement—feeling of accomplishment from doing a job well
- Promotion—having the opportunity for advancement

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

Challenge

Recognition

Motivators of Success 2

For Employee

How do these characteristics help you handle challenges you may experience in your current role?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

Challenge keeps me engaged by providing continuous opportunities to grow my skills and expand my knowledge. When I'm learning something new—especially through certifications or more advanced technologies—I feel energized and better equipped to tackle complex problems or evolving business needs.

Recognition reinforces my sense of purpose and encourages me to keep performing at a high level. Acknowledgment of the work I do—whether technical problem-solving, process improvements, or collaborative efforts—helps me stay focused and confident, especially when working through high-pressure or high-visibility tasks.

Individual Development Plan - Section 4

Resiliency Planning 1

For Employee

Resilience is the ability to adapt to and recover quickly from difficult or challenging experiences, requiring mental, emotional, and behavioral flexibility. In this section, reflect on your stress triggers and responses.

This insight helps normalize conversations about well-being by proactively sharing what you know about how stress impacts you and by identifying what is most effective in supporting your resilience.

EMPLOYEE RESPONSE REQUIRED BELOW

What do you notice about how you respond when experiencing workplace stress?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

When I’m experiencing workplace stress, I tend to turn inward and focus on individual tasks where I can feel productive and in control. I may become quieter and more withdrawn—not because I’m disengaged, but because I’m working through how to be effective in a moment that feels uncertain or overwhelming. I also find myself mentally revisiting conversations or situations, trying to evaluate what I could have done differently or how I can improve next time. These patterns are part of how I process stress and stay accountable, but I’m learning to balance that with seeking clarity, connection, and support when needed.

Resiliency Planning 2

For Employee

Are there specific stress triggers that you anticipate in your role this year?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

One potential stress trigger I anticipate is navigating shifting expectations around how IT and security processes should be implemented. Both the long-standing practices and the changes we adopt are sometimes aligned with industry standards and sometimes not, which can make it challenging to maintain consistency and clarity. As the newest member of the Infrastructure team, I’m also still getting familiar with internal norms and decision-making styles, which adds a layer of complexity when contributing ideas or adapting to evolving priorities.

Resiliency Planning 3

For Employee

How can your supervisor or manager best support your well-being and resilience?

Employee Answer

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN 08/06/2025

I would benefit from clearer guidance on when input is being invited and when the focus is on observation and learning. In group settings, I often find it difficult to know when my contributions will be welcome; I sometimes feel my suggestions - even when aligned with industry standards - don't seem to resonate with how WHA has traditionally approached IT or security. This dynamic makes it harder to feel confident participating.

Clearer communication about expectations in group settings would also help reduce the stress I feel when I'm unsure whether I should be offering input or simply observing. This uncertainty often leads me to second-guess myself or hold back, especially when I've previously shared ideas that didn't align with the team's direction. Knowing when and how my contributions are expected would help me stay engaged and confident, even in fast-moving or technically complex conversations.

Overall Comments

POSEY, BRITTANY LYNN Employee 08/06/2025

I genuinely enjoy working at WHA and appreciate the opportunity to contribute to an organization that serves such a meaningful mission. I like and respect the people I work with and for, and I find purpose in knowing that the work I do directly impacts both our internal teams and the patients we support in the community. I want to continue growing in this role and be someone the team can rely on. I'm committed to building on my strengths, learning from challenges, and contributing to WHA's continued success.
